By Lyn Mettler | U.S. News & World Report | June 23, 2019

Whether you want to indulge in deep reds or sip crisp whites, these gorgeous Napa Valley wineries will help you do it in style.

From its rich cabernets to its flavorful pinots, Napa Valley is renowned for incredible wine. But the wineries in this area offer more than just their outstanding varietals. Oenophiles can enjoy beautiful grounds with European-inspired architecture, lush vineyard views and unique art installations. To help you choose which properties to visit during your next wine country trip, U.S. News rounded up a list of Napa Valley's best wineries. Read on to see which properties are sure to leave a lasting impression.

DOMAINE CARNEROS: NAPA

Sip wine in a French-inspired chateau at Domaine Carneros, which resembles the 18th-century Château de la Marquetterie in Champagne, France. Enjoy a reservation-only tasting on a terrace that overlooks Napa Valley, or take a seat in the property's salon for table service. The winery's award-winning sparkling wine and pinot noir are standard crowd-pleasers, but those seeking an even more special experience should pay for the Art of Sparkling Wine Pairing or the Sparkling Suite tasting. Each option pairs the bubbly beverages with Asian-themed food or caviar and charcuterie, respectively. Standard wine tastings, which start at $35 per person, are also available daily.
