The Weekly Dozen - A Cornucopia of Bubbles

BY ROGER MORRIS | DECEMBER 4, 2019

Just as summer has become the season of rosés, winter has long been the season of sparkling wines, even though we should be drinking both the year around. This week we feature 13 from a half-dozen countries in various styles from various grapes, and with prices ranging from $13 to $83, there is something for everyone.

NV Bisol "Jeio"

Valdobbiadene Prosecco Supérieure Brut ($15)

The entry level sparkling from this quality Prosecco producer (more coming below), it is a little buttery, a little creamy with good intensity and mouth feel.

2017 Bisol "Crede"

Valdobbiadene Prosecco Supérieure ($21)

Very elegant, with flavors of dried grains and fresh-cut apples.

2013 Bisol "Private Cartizze"

Valdobbiadene Dry Prosecco ($39)

Loads of flavors that aged bubbly bring – dried fruits and straw – with green acidity, almost like an elegant table wine with bubbles.

2018 Bisol "Cartizze"

Valdobbiadene Prosecco Supérieure Dry ($40)

Delicious and elegant with ripe fruit and slightly candied notes – very enjoyable, very well-structured.
